

React is the entry point to the React library. If you load React from a `<script>` tag, these top-level APIs are available globally. If you use...